LIGHTING THE PATH FOR IMPACT INVESTING IN CANADA

VANCOUVER

May 4, 2016 | 8AM - 4PM

Vancouver Convention Center

REGISTER AT WWW.IMPACTINVESTMENTFORUM.COM

There is a new way of investing that is transpiring; it harnesses the power of the capital markets to create social and environmental impact.

The Impact Investment Forum will host influential leaders, key note speakers, game changing entrepreneurs, and prominent figures from within the impact investment community.

Are you a conscious investor who wants to ensure their capital will fund companies and projects that make a positive impact to humanity? How do you find these potential investments? Is it possible to earn an attractive return from this type of portfolio?

A luncheon panel of industry experts will discuss how they identify impact investments, what does the Canadian landscape look like?

A 360 degree perspective will be presented, from the business leaders creating a positive impact, to the investors.

Speakers and panelists to be announced.

NOT SURE IMPACT INVESTING IS REAL?

-  Global efforts are gaining momentum. Last year, the Rockefeller Brothers Fund pulled out of fossil-fuel investments, and so did the World Council of Churches.

-  Oxford University pledged to avoid investments in coal and oil sands firms.

---

-  Norway's parliament voted to shed coal-related investments from its $890-billion sovereign-wealth fund, which is the world's largest.

---

-  In Australia, the Royal Australasian College of Physicians said it is divesting from fossil fuels "due to health impacts of climate change."

---

-  Stanford University has gotten out of coal and so has French insurer Axa SA.

---

-  RBC Announces $20 Million in Commitments to New Social and Environmental Initiative

---

-  Goldman Sachs spent 4 Billion since 2001 in impact investments
